If we divide this function by  $n^5$ , we get  $3^n (\log n)^5$ . Let's define  $g(n) = 3^n (\log n)^5$  and take it's  $\log$ :  $\log g(n) = \log 3^n (\log n)^5 = \log 3 \log n^5$  From this point, I'm stuck. If  $\log 3$  is irrational, it makes sense that  $\log 3 \log n^5$  is irrational, so I guess this is where I need help. A: Hint:  $\ln(3^x) = x \ln(3)$ . Prognostic value of M-mode ultrasound echocardiographic data of left ventricular myocardium in hemodialysis patients. Hemodialysis is known to be associated with abnormalities in left ventricular (LV) function, but these are not fully characterized. We used M-mode ultrasound to determine changes in LV myocardium in a large group of hemodialysis patients. We also studied the influence of the duration of dialysis on LV myocardial dysfunction. We studied 117 end-stage renal disease patients undergoing maintenance hemodialysis (84 men and 33 women). The patients' mean age was  $55.7 \pm 13.8$  years, and the mean duration of dialysis was  $34.7 \pm 43.2$  months. They were classified into 2 groups according to dialysis duration: group A, 1 year ( $n=102$ ). A normal control group ( $n=14$ ) was also studied. M-mode echocardi
